HISTORY
OF THE
SIDERFIN FAMILY OF
WEST SOMERSET.

BY
JAMES SANDERS, J.P.,
OF SOUTH MOLTON.
DEVON.

PREFACE.

While turning the pages of Savage's interesting Hundred of Carhampton in Somersetshire, I came across certain records of one William Siderfin.

My mother having been a Siderfin, my attention was at once aroused, and I resolved to pursue the study of the annales of the family to which he belonged. My main reason was the natural interest one must feel in his ancestors, their occupations, their services to the State or to society, their habits and manners, their prosperity or adversity. The pursuit of this subject became fascinating, and furnished a welcome relief from the routine duties and commercial engagements of a busy life.

I have thought it desirable to put into a permanent form, through the printing press, the result of these researches, believing that this record may prove entertaining to those who may trace any connection, either by descent in the direct line or by the alliance of marriage, with the family of Siderfin.

Moreover, the students of archæology and local history who know the district of West Somerset may be prepared to accept the humble contribution of a novice in their craft to their gathered store of information.

No pretensions to literary merit are made by the writer, and criticism should be disarmed by this admission on the part of one whose motto is "Deeds, not words."

The ancestral home of the Siderfin family cannot be determined, but Luxborough seems to provide the chief material for this memorial, in the form of parish registers, etc. In the early days Selworthy ; Wootton Courtney and Minehead in the later period.

And my thanks are due to Sir Maxwell Lyte, Sir C. H. Chadwyck Healey, E. T. MacDermott, Esq., Rev. F. Hancock, and other gentlemen, for permission to use extracts from their books.

History of the Siderfin Family of West Somerset.

The first mention of the name I find in the Hundred Rolls of Somerset :—

(1) "ROTULI HUNDREDORUM," Somerset, Vol. II., page 127, the 4th year of Edward I. (A.D., 1274)—"Lib 'un Man'ium de Brigford' (Brushford) Jurator' dicūt qđ đui liboz man 'ioz hnt furc' and assiām pan' and cvīs' set nesciūt qo warāto. Iđ de Vic' capientibz muna Dicūt qđ Ričs de Meyesmor' cep' p̄ reddita desseysina C soł de hōibz Joħis de Repariis sciīt de Sampson' de Hasle Joħe Brum Robto de Sidernefenne wiīt Binophtheweye," etc.

THE TRANSLATION.

Hundred Rolls, Somerset, Vol. II., page 127, the 4th year of E. I. (A.D., 1275-6)—The Free Manor of Brigford (Brushford).

The jurors say that the lords of free manors have a gallows [the power to inflict capital punishment] and the assize of bread and ale but they do not know by what warrant. And with respect to sheriffs taking payments they say that Richard de Meyesmor took for rent* from the men of John de Repariis (Rivers), namely from Sampsan de Hasle, John Brum, Robert de Sidernefenne, William Binophtheweye, etc.

* Of disseisin one hundred shillings.

(2) I cannot make out exactly what Sidernefenne meant. Perhaps it meant altogether "the side of the herne or corner of the valley by the fen or swamp." In Kelly's Directory of Somersetshire for the year 1875 a farm called Venn Southern Venn or Fen is referred to in Brushford parish. Binoptheweye evidently means William who lived "by no pathway," Brushford was then, I think, within the metes and bounds of Exmoor Forest; but there were freemen who paid a hundred shillings quit rent—a large sum of money in those days. Repariis was, I believe, another form of spelling for Redvers.

After this I find no trace of this family, they may have migrated into Devon.

There was no doubt a John Siderfin who died previous to 1551, who had a son William.

Savage's Hundred of Carhampton, p. 259, contains the following :—"In the reign of Queen Elizabeth there were some proceedings in Chancery in which James Foster was plaintiff, and Robert Siderfinne defendant, respecting a lease of Land parcel of the Manor of Luxborough of which Manor, John Foster, the plaintiff's grandfather was Lord and after him James Foster the plaintiff's Father who demised the said Land to William Sidervin deceased. (a) Note Calendar of proceedings in Chancery, p. 292, No. 54."

This William Sidervin (note difference in spelling), married a Wilmot Foster, who were the parents of the aforesaid Robert Siderfinne.

THE ANSWER OF ROBERT SYTERFEN TO THE BILL OF COMPLAINT OF JAMES FOSTER.

Denies truth of bill. Says that John Foster, plaintiff's grandfather, was seised of the manor of Luxborough Eve; that he died about forty years ago; that James Foster, son of said John, "in consyderacion that One Willim Syterven father unto the Sayd nowe defendant shoulde Espouse and Take to wyffe One Wilmott foster daughter unto the Sayd John Foster," leased the tenement in question to the said William and Wilmot about 26 Henry VIII. [1534-5] for 60 years, as Wilmot's marriage portion. Denies the variance, submission and award, and the suits and heriot. "But he sayeth that one Alexander baker in the ryght of one Johan Foster wydowe who claymed the Sayd Mannour for term of her lyffe by force of A devyse made by one John Foster her husband Sonne and heir unto James Foster wrongfully for a Heriott Toke A Colte of the sayd William Sytervens, the Sayd Colt Beinge not Taken upon the tenement but upon A Common therunto adjoyninge." Wilmot, defendant's mother, died half a year since, leaving defendant as her sole executor. Witnesses named in the bill are well able to appear at the county assizes, and plaintiff has already taken suit against defendant at the common law. Prays to be dismissed with costs.

(Note—Somerset Chantries, A.D. 1548, Som. Record Society, Vol. II., pages 46-7.)—Thus shewing they lived at Luxborough prior to this date. This William Setherfin was proceeded against in Court of Requests. (See Hancock's Minehead, page 115.)

After the dissolution of the abbey of Bruton, and the forfeiture of its possessions, the advowson of Minehead seems to have led a shuttle-cock kind of existence. From the dissolution of the Abbey, up till 1551, the rectory was held by the king, but in this latter year, according to the papers quoted below, Edward granted it to John Belmayne, Esquire. This good gentleman, however, found when he proceeded to take possession that the king's right to a portion of the temporalities was disputed; and that William Setherfen of Cutcombe, and Christian Setherfen, widow, and certain of their children held various lands and tenements belonging to the parsonage of Minehead in Cutcombe and Luxborough, and the tithes thereof under a lease to John Syderfen from the last abbot of Bruton. Belmayne sought redress as follows :—

COURT OF REQUESTS, HUNT'S SERIES, BUNDLE 19, NO. 10.

To the Kinges most Royal Majestie.

In most Humble wyse shewyth and complayneth unto your Highness John Belmayne, Esq., that whereas your Majesty was seised in your demesne as of fee of the parsonage of Mynehedd and Cutcombe with the rights and appurtes in co. Somerset late parcel of the possessions of the late monastery of Brewton in co. Somerset : and so seised by Letter Patent dated 31 March in the 5th year of your reign (1551) your Highness granted and to farm let to plt. the said parsonage with all the houses, buildings, barns, tithes, rents, reversions, etc. in Mynehedd and Cutcombe to the said parsonage belonging great trees and woods growing upon any part of the said premises only excepted : to hold to plt. for 21 years paying yearly to your Majesty for the same £27 12s. 4d.

Now so it is that divers charters and evidences, and also certain counterfeit writings and indentures of no force in the law supposed to have been made by the late Abott of Brewton as well to William Setherfen of Cutcombe and Christian Setherfen widow as to certain of the children of the said William and Christian have come into the hands of the said William and Christian who by colour thereof not only claim certain lands and tenements parcel of the said parsonage in certain hamlets called Cutcombe and Luxborough and to all the tithes there being parcel of the said parsonage of Minehead, but have also unjustly entered into the said lands and tenements taken the tithes and defforced plt. from the same to his great loss, so that he will be unable to pay the said rent to your Majesty unless remedy be made. As the reversion of the said parsonage belongs to your Highness great prejudice and disinheritance may ensue for want of the said evidence, and by the not examining and lack of the trial of the truth of such pretended writings and indentures of Leases and other conveyances as the said William and Christian or their children claim by, to be had now whilst it is known that they are untrue.

And whereas many of the witnesses who know the truth are very old and impotent persons not able to travel and not likely to live long, by whose death it might happen that the truth concerning the premises could not be tried : It may therefore please your Majesty to grant plt. your Letters of Commission under the Privy Seal to be directed to certain men of worship inhabiting the parts there near adjoining, giving them authority to call witnesses and examine them, and then to certify to the Court of Requests what has been done in the matter.

THE ANSWER OF WILLIAM SITHERFYN TO THE BILL OF COMPLAINT OF JOHN BELMAYNE.

Deft. says that long before the King had anything in the said rectory and parsonage of Cutcombe, William Bishop of Maior and late Abbot of Bruton, in co. Somerset, was therefore seised in his demesne as of fee as in the right of the late Monastery of Bruton : and so seised, with the assent of the Convent of the said Monastery, by good conveyance in the law, granted and to farm let to deft., certain lands and tenements in Luxborough in the tenure of John Sytherphyn, father of deft., being parcel of the parsonage of Cutcombe, together with all the fruits and tithes of the corn of Lukkesbrough: to hold to deft. for his life, by force, whereof deft. is seized of the same in his demesne as of freehold and has taken the tithes thereof. Deft. also keeps all the charters, evidences, etc., concerning his estate and title in and to the premises.

Plt., in his replication, says that the "pretensed" lease supposed to have been made by the said John Abbot of Bruton is insufficient in the law.

The above bill is endorsed: "At Grenewiche, 14 May, 7 Edw. VI. (1553). A writ to be directed to the said William Setherfyn and Christian Setherfyn personally to appear at Westminster in the Octaves of Holy Trinity next to make answer."

This man must have had a pretty good experience in Law, but no residence mentioned.

EXTRACTS—SOMERSETSHIRE WILLS.

William Sidervin, Luxborough, Somt. gent.

Will dated 20th Aug. 1568. Proved 16th May 1572 (Taunton Registry).

To be buried in the chancel Residue to my son Robert and Wilmot my Wife to dispose of my goods as shall seem best to the pleasure of God and the weal of my soul Mr. Alexander Sydenham of Coombe Sydenham family a witness. Wilmot Foster.

This man had one son Robert and a daughter called Jone, who married William Webber, ? 1602.

In Somerset Muster Roll, 1569, we find in the Tything of Luxborough:—

Thomas Webber, "archer";

James Foster, billman;

Thomas Greenslade, pikeman;

Robert Suddervin, archer; armour, one tything corslet furnished.

Wm. Sethervine,

James Foster, and others ; viij pair Almain rivets furnished.

Gleen's Somerset and Armada, 1580 :—

Carhampton (certificat of the Souldiours in Somerset) 240 able men ; 20 corslets prov. with pikes, etc. ; 14 harquebusses ; 31 bows and arrows ; 80 bills and almayne ; 1 demi lance ; 10 light horse.

Among list of pike and shotmen, Hundred of Carhampton, Robt. Syderfin, pikeman.

MUSTER ROLL OF THE HUNDRED OF CARHAMPTON.

Among 240 men fit for service (1580) (Armada) we find Robt. Syderfyne as a Pykeman :—

In 1580 our own hundred of Carhampton is returned as having ready two hundred and forty men fit for service. These consisted of two hundred and ten footmen, of whom twenty reckoned as “Corselets” are furnished with pikes, swords and daggers, fourteen as “harquebusses” with norrions sword and dagger, thirty one with bows and sheafs of arrows, sword and dagger ; eighty with billes with almayne rivets, sword and dagger. There were also one demi-lance fully equipped and ten light horse.⁽²⁾ Mr. Luttrell and his fellow workers must have been very busy to have got such a force ready ! The men from Carhampton and eight other hundreds were under the command of Sir John Stawell of Cothelstone, a portion of whose beautiful old manor house is still to be seen. Mr. Emanuel Green gives us the names of the pikemen and the “shot,” i.e., those who had been instructed presumably in the use of the arquebus, etc., and who were under the command of George Sydenham of Coombe Sydenham.

We print the list as some of the names are Minehead names :—Pikemen : Willm. Poole ; Willm. Welche ; Cove-naante Harris ; Robt. Syderfyne. Shot : Walter Frauncke Corporall ; Thos. Elsworthie Decenier ; John Uppington ; John Hill.

In 1641 a Protestation was entered into all parishes before two of his Majesty's Justice of Peace "to support the Protestant religion against all Popery, etc." Among the parishes in the "Hundred of Carhampton" was Cutcombe names as follow: Re winter clerk; George Baker and John Milton, churchwardens; Laurence Widlake, John Thorne, William Syderfin, Willyam Welshe, overseers; and in Selworthy "and there is none that hath refused and all have been willing to take it. John Sidderfin with the rest."

Shewing there was a John Siderfin at Selworthy in 1641.

John Hill Minister.

Robt. Phelp, }
John Stote, } Wardens.

Wilmote Siderven, will proved 1579, mentions son Robert and daughter Jone Webber, also a granddaughter Jone, but no mention of property.

The son Robert had eight children, William, born 1585; Robert, 1587; Thomas, 1590; Janet, 1596; Elizabeth, 1597; Jone, 1602.

The Visitation of Somerset made in the year 1623 by Henry St. George and Sampson Lennard under Camden:—

Dunster, 15 Aug. 1623—Robert Gitterfen, of Loxborough, gent. (also spelt in the column giving list of gentry, Robert Sitterfyn, gent.)

There is no mention of any of this family bearing arms, yet Collinson, in History of Somerset, mentions "Arms, three cups,"—Siderfin.

No doubt this family migrated to other parishes, for we find in the Subsidy Rolls, 21 James I., 1624, and later, at Mynehead we find Robto Saydersin.

After 1641 the churchwardens no longer sign the registers, and on the expulsion of Mr. Knolles, the customary paid registrar seems to have taken them over. The following note occurs under the date 1653:—"Bee it remembered that the 24th day of November, 1653, William Atwell, of Mynhede, was the sworn Register their according to the Act of Parliament in that case made and pvided. (Signed) Tho. Siderfin."

Thomas Siderfin was a local Justice of the Peace. The Siderfin family appear to have been either Dutch or Italian merchants, who early settled at Croydon, in the parish of Timberscombe.

Robert Syderfin, Baldwin Malet, Warwick Bamfylde, John Anthill, a Catholic, Charles Staynings to be Deputy Lieutenants.

Glancing at these answers those rather favourable appear next on the list; then come the late Deputy Lieutenants whose more decided replies make their intentions clear.

Then follows a list of Catholics and Dissenters proposed to be added to the Commission of Peace in divers parts of the County of Somerset, and some of them to be both Justices of Peace and Deputy Lieutenants. (Robert Syderfin is in this list).

An account of Corporations and other Burrows of County of Somerset who are for taking off Penall Laws and Tests, and who have interest to be chosen Parliament men, etc.

Mynehead—Francis Luttrell (who will not comply), hath soe much interest there that it will be difficult to oppose him. Robert Syderfin, a barrister, hath a good interest, and John Speke if he be not chosen for the County.

1688. Mynehead is a Corporation, the Election popular; the towne belongs to Col. Luttrell, of whom we can yett give not account, who he proposes will be chosen here, except the Sheriff can improve the interest of John Speke and Robert Sinderfin (who both right), which he hath promised to doe.

In the first revision of Deputy Lieutenants in December, 1685, the following names were submitted to the King:—

Lord Fitzharding,
Francis Paulett, Esquire,
Sir Wm. Bassett,
William Lucy, Esquire.

New ones.

Sir Hugh Tynte,
Sir Thomas Bridges,
Edward Strode, Esquire,
Edward Clarke, Esquire,
Robert Siderfin, Esquire,
Baldwin Mallett, Esquire,
Warwick Bamfield, Esquire,
John Anthill, Esquire,
Charles Steynings, Esquire, to be Justices of Peace, etc.

In the revision, 1688, the list included Robert Synderfin.

FROM MACDERMOT'S Forest of Exmoor.

JAMES BOEVEY OF LONDON, MERCHANT.—James Boeve or Boevey, the first owner of Exmoor, was of Dutch extraction. His father, one Andrew Boeve of Courtrai in Flanders, was brought to England in 1573 at the age of seven by his parents, who being Huguenots fled from the persecution of the Duke of Alva.

However, his appetite for litigation had not decreased with age, and the law officers of the Crown seem to have been ever ready to assist him. A few days before the landing of William of Orange at Tor Bay, we find the Attorney General lodging a bill in the Exchequer against Robert Siderfin, who in 1681 had succeeded his brother Thomas as lord of the Manor of Exton, Hawkrigde and Withypool. It is to this bill that the extracts from the Rolls of the Exmoor Forest Court refer. The cause of the trouble was evidently that Siderfin had been impounding some of the forest sheep and cattle found on Hawkrigde and Withypool Commons. Boevey having discovered that the foresters in Tudor times had laid claim to these commons as part of the forest, renewed his pretensions, not only as to Hawkrigde and Withypool, but inferentially to all other commons, and further developed his theory of the Royal Manor. The action is ostensibly for the recovery of documents, which are alleged to be in Siderfin's possession, but it includes a claim to the commons, and this was the real object in view. That Siderfin had got hold of any of the forest records seems highly improbable.

After James Bovey's death, January, 1696, his widow, Mrs. Margaret Bovey, succeeded to his interest in Exmoor Forest under provisions of his will. Mrs. Boevey kept the forest for eight years, and on the 26th April, 1704, sold the residue of her term—fifteen years—to her husband's old adversary, Robert Siderfin of Croydon in Carhampton Parish, who had already acquired the reversionary lease for thirty one years granted to Lord Arundell, of Trerice, in December, 1678. How he obtained this lease is not apparent; Lord Arundell had died in October, 1687, and his son John, the second baron, in June, 1698.

Robert Siderfin, who thus became entitled to Exmoor Forest for forty six years,—to be exact, for a term ending on the 21st July, 1750, was the representative of a family which had long been settled in Luxborough, in November, 1645, and is described in the register as “ye sonne of Thomas Sidderfin,” the latter was a justice of the peace during the time of the Commonwealth. Robert succeeded to the Croydon property and the Manors of Exton, Hawkridge and Withypool as well as South Quarme in 1681, under the will of his elder brother, Thomas Siderfin. He was a barrister by profession and Sheriff of Somerset in 1694. Whether he still owned all the property is a little doubtful in view of a private Act of Parliament which was passed in 1700, entitled "An Act for vesting the Manor of Exton and other lands in the County of Somerset, late the estate of Thomas Siderfin, Esquire, deceased, in trustees to be sold for payment of debts." We do not know what was done in pursuance of this Act. Robert Siderfin certainly held Croydon till his death, and perhaps Hawkridge and Withypool too. If so the lord of these manors was once again after an interval of more than four centuries forester of Exmoor, Richard de Plessy, who died in 1289, having been the last to hold them with the forestership.

In 1706 we find the new forester following the example of his predecessor by going to law with some of his neighbours. It seems that the right on the forest claimed by the suitors at large, or borderers, were not generally recognized even at this time; so with a view to settling the question Siderfin filed his bill in the Exchequer in Michaelmas term, 1706, against the following persons:—John and Lewis Hatche, of South Molton; Nicholas, George and William Shapland, William and George Barrow, John and Daniel Smith, and William Kingdon, all of North Molton; John Mogeridge, of Molland, and David Bale of Linton.

In this he shows his title to "a large tract of land heretofore the Forest and Chace of Exmore" under letters patent of the 15th January, 12 Charles II. (1661), whereby the same was leased to James, Marquis of Ormond, and his assigns for 31 years in reversion.

From these pleadings we see that at this period Exmoor was regarded merely in its aspect of a great sheep pasture, and that the forest and forestal rights were in danger of being forgotten by the forester himself, who speaks of it as "a large tract of land heretofore the Forest or Chace of Exmore," while the defendants do not believe it to be a forest at all and doubt whether it ever was one. It is pretty evident that during the last half century Mr. Boevey had only concerned himself with the revenue-producing possibilities of his property, and had allowed the rights over the deer claimed by his predecessors to lapse. From his statement that the prices for agistment had been usually if not always the same, Siderfin was evidently ignorant of the fact that they had been fixed by Boevey in 1655, and that he could alter them if so minded. This ignorance seems to have been shared by all the succeeding foresters. The defendants pervert the truth very conveniently in their answer by omitting to mention that the right of pasture in the forest, confirmed to the lord and tenants of North Molton by the decree they quote, was limited to the time between sunrise and sunset, and that they had therefore no right to leave their sheep in the forest at night, which fact, of course, made a considerable difference to the value of their right of common. The defendants who lived in Molland and Lynton did not put in any answers to the bill, so we do not hear whether they claimed the same right as the North Molton men, and if so, on what grounds. Siderfin does not appear to have proceeded with the action. After this time all the borderers with one or two exceptions seem to have been treated alike, paying half the rates which strangers paid ; at least this was the case in 1736 and subsequently.

In 1719 Mr. Siderfin had some trouble with one John Dennicombe, a recently evicted tenant of Simonsbath Farm, who brought an action against him in Chancery. From the pleadings we learn that in 1702 Mr. William Smith, "agent to Madam Bovey," had let the farm, then about to become vacant, to Dennicombe at a yearly rent of £9. This seems by the way a very low figure ; probably it was difficult to get a tenant at all owing to the loneliness of the place. Later on the rent was generally £35 a year. In May, 1704, Dennicombe had taken the farm from a new forester on a five years' repairing agreement, and had given him a bond for £500 to observe its conditions. "During the term the premises fell into very great decay and became ruinous for want of repair."

Siderfin gave the tenant notice to repair, but the latter said he was too poor to lay out the money and asked his landlord to do the repairs, promising to repay him. So in 1706 the latter spent over £20, and "new covered and tiled a barn at a cost of over £10."

After the five years were up Dennicombe was allowed to remain as a yearly tenant till 1717, when he was given notice to quit. "About Lady-day, 1718, the Plaintiff's wife came to the defendant at his dwelling at Croyden and asked him to let them remain in part of the dwellinghouse till Midsomer, promising to deliver up possession of the other part and also of all the land except the garden forthwith, and of the rest of the house and the garden at Midsomer." To this Siderfin consented, but when 'Midsomer' came Dennicombe refused to go, whereupon the former "caused your Orator to be arrested on the Bond, and for want of special bail carried to Ivelchester Gaol where he still remaineth." This was the usual method of treating debtors in those days. 'At the winter assizes in Hillary Term last' (1719) Siderfin brought an action for ejectment, and according to the plaintiff, "taking advantage of your Orator's poverty and imprisonment snapt a judgement." Accordingly the bailiffs of the Sheriff of Somerset turned the rest of the Dennicombe family out upon the moor on the 22nd April 1719, and duly gave possession of Simonsbath House to Mr. Siderfin. Four days later the suit in Chancery was commenced, the plaintiff alleging that he had spent large sums in the last year on improving and manuring the farm, etc., etc., and that Siderfin had promised never to turn him out. The latter made answer on the 14th July denying that he had ever made any improvements or spent five shillings on the farm, which was in a very much worse state than when he took it, and concludes by alleging that "the complainant or h's family have broken, burnt or otherwise destroyed the gates, floors, and timbers of the said house to the value of £10 and more." No doubt firewood was scarce on Exmoor.

Whether John Dennicombe got the relief he sought or ended his days in Ilchester Gaol, we know not.

The Marquis of Ormond's lease of January 1661, came to an end on the 21st July, 1719, but this made no practical difference, as Siderfin held Lord Arundell's reversionary lease of December, 1678, which then began to run. Strictly speaking, the term which he had bought from Mrs. Boevey expired a month earlier, as the last month of the thirty-one years had been reserved by the Marquis when he transferred the lease to James Boevey in 1661, but this fact had no doubt been forgotten.

Robert Siderfin died in July, 1720, and was buried at Luxborough on the 14th of that month. He had been married four times; Ann, daughter of Sir John Wittewronge of Rothamstead in Hertford, whose death on May 5th, 1708, is recorded by an inscription on the floor of Luxborough Church, being referred to in his will as his third wife, while he left a widow, Elizabeth by name. One of the two earlier wives was "Katherine Siderfin alias Graves," administration of whose estate was granted to him in November, 1686. By one of the earlier marriages he had two sons, Walter and Robert, but neither is referred to in his will, by which he left all his lands in Somerset and Devon, subject to a charge for the payment of his debts, to his wife Elizabeth, and made her residuary legatee and sole executrix.

The will is dated 14th June, 1715. Like his elder brother Thomas, Robert Siderfin died in debt, and the widow having renounced probate of his will, administration was granted to Robert Darch as principal creditor on the 22nd June, 1721.

This Robert Darch, a Presbyterian minister at Bishop's Hull, near Taunton, was the second of four brothers, nephews of Robert Siderfin. His eldest brother, Thomas, lived and owned land in Luxborough, where he died in August, 1734. There is an inscription on the floor of Luxborough Church recording his death and that of his widow, Sarah, who is described as "a father to the poor and eminent for the practice of virtue and true religion." Two other brothers, James and Philip, the latter of whom seems to have been also a Presbyterian minister, are referred to as 'my nephews' in Siderfin's will and given legacies of £100 each. The Darch family had long been resident in Luxborough ; in 1598 a James Darch of Luxborough, was joint plaintiff in a lawsuit concerning Exmoor with Thomas Webber, the deputy forester.

After Siderfin's death his interest in Exmoor Forest, probably by some arrangement among the creditors, became divided between two persons, the principal of whom was this Robert Darch. In the rental of the crown lands compiled in 1734 the tenants of Exmoor Forest are named as " Robert Darch and another " and from the fact that Darch purchased the tithes from the Cressets in 1723 we may infer with tolerable certainty that he was then in possession of an interest in the Forest itself. ' Another ' was presumably the John Hill who ' passed and allowed ' before two witnesses, the accounts of the deputy forester, which were furnished to Darch's widow and son in 1737 and 1743 respectively. Very likely he was a grandson of Boevey's deputy forester who lived at Newland in Withypool in 1678. A third John Hill appears as owner of Newland and Higher Lanacre in 1819. From the terms of Darch's will, combined with the absence from these accounts of any rent for Simonsbath Farm, it seems that this belonged solely to Darch, and that Hill had a half share in the forest only, exclusive of the farm. However this may have been, Darch had the predominant interest as sole owner of the tithes besides his share of the forest.

Darch died on the 31st January, 1737. Among the pamphlets enumerated in Mr. E. Green's Bibliotheca Somersetensis appear the following :—" Grove, Henry A funeral sermon occasioned by the death of the late reverend Mr. Robert Darch, of Hill Bishops, in the County of Somerset, who departed this life Jan. 31st, 1737, ætat 65." From another entry in the same work we gather that at the funeral of Robert Siderfin's third wife, Darch himself had entertained the mourners with a discourse considered worthy of printing :—" Darch, Robert (Hill-bishops). A sermon preach'd at the funeral of Mrs. Anne, the wife of Robert Siderfin, Esq., one of her Majesties justices of the peace for the County of Somerset, at Timberscombe, May 13th, 1708."

West Somerset, BY CHADWYCK HEALEY.

East Harwood is no doubt to be identified with the estate held in 1325 by Nicholas de Harwood of the Lord of Luccombe by the service of one fourth part of a Knight's fee. In 1634 it was in the possession of one Richard Stephens⁽¹⁾; in 1679 it was in the possession of Thomas Siderfin⁽²⁾; and in 1688 of Robert Siderfin⁽³⁾; in 1714 Robert Merring, George Lugg and Thomasina his wife appear to have been possessors.⁽⁴⁾

East Harwood the larger has been joined to Timberscombe, as from 25th March, 1883.

To her daughter, Sarah Worth, she gave all her interest "in a messuage known as Broadmead in Selworthy," also certain chests "standing in the gallery and hall chamber at Witchanger" including the "great chist" in the gallery "on which her harpsicords stand," she gave a piece of gold of 20s. to her daughter-in-law Christian^(b) wife of her son John Worth, and for legacies to her fower grandchildren, daughters of her said son, John Worth, viz., to Christian and Mary £5 apiece, and unto Susannah and Sarah £3 apiece, to their brother, Thomas Worth her grandson, she bequeathed her "silver bolle."

Oare. In 1668, John Question, of Dunster, held two undivided fifths of the Manor and advowson which he conveyed by a deed, 20th Jany. in that year to John Quirke or Quirche, of Periton in Minehead. In March, 1677, Robert Burgoyne, of Tiverton Castle, conveyed to John Quirke by deed, one undivided fifth part of the Manor and advowson, and in March, 1694, Quirke obtained a conveyance of another fifth from Francis Burgoyne, of Cranbourne, in Dorset, and Catherine, his wife.^(c) In 1676 Richard Spurrier, widow, took from Hanibal Gidleigh another fifth of the Manor and advowson.⁽⁴⁾ These conveyances would seem to represent the whole Manor, but that there were outstanding interests in some other families in plain by the fact that in 1728 Warwick Hawkey and his wife passed their interest in one-fifth to trustees, and in the following year the Rev. Francis Tucker and Jane his wife were also deforciants to a fine of one fifth of the Manor.⁽⁵⁾ These two fines no doubt dealt with one and the same fifth part, because we find that on the 29th June, 1729, by a deed of that date Mr. Hawkey and his wife and Mr. Tucker and his wife together conveyed one fifth part of the Manor to Peter Spurrier absolutely.⁽⁶⁾

The following is a copy of seal on a document dated 1700, in Dunster Castle, when Robert Siderfin was trustee for Tregonwell Luttrell, a minor.

1690. Robert Siderfin signed the Churchwardens' Accounts for Porlock as Justice of Peace.

The lords of the castle and manor of Dunster and of the hundred of Carhampton as lords paramount have for time immemorial claimed and taken all wrecks from the sea from a place called the Foreland situate in the parish of Countisbury in the county of Devon . . . to Shurton Bars, in the parish of Stogursey. In the third year Edw. IV., as stated above, the honour of Dunster was confiscated by the King and given to Sir William Herbert. In the grant of the estate "the wreck of the sea which belonged to the castle"

* The title armiger is usually limited to the person in possession of the estate.

is expressly mentioned. When (1 Hen. VII.) all Sir James Luttrell's estates were restored to Sir Hugh, his son, by act of Parliament, this right, amongst others, is specified. "Wrecca Maris" is mentioned in a "Bargain and Sale," 4th June, 1680, of Francis Luttrell, Esq., to John Tregonnell and Thomas Siderfin, Esq. Again in a settlement of the same property made by Francis Luttrell, Esq., on his marriage and in all subsequent settlements, "wreck of the sea" is expressly mentioned. Accounts exist of wreckage taken by the owners of Dunster castle at or near Culbone 1770, at or near Porlock, 1763, 1770, 1771,¹ 1784, 1804, 1811, 1830, 1852, 1872; Dunster warren, 1771, 1807; Donniford, 1773; Old Cleeve, 1771; Watchet, 1810, 1817.

POLITICAL HISTORY OF MINEHEAD ON ACCESSION OF JAMES II.

Amongst those who were appointed as deputy lieutenants as friends to the king's cause are :—"George Musgrave, of Huish Barton, near Minehead; John Speak, eldest son to George Speak ⁽¹⁾ near Ilminster; Robert Syderfyn (of Croydon) and Charles Steynings (of Holnicote)."

The views of the various boroughs were next inquired into, "and of those persons (in them) who are for taking off the Penall laws and Tests and who have interest to be chosen Parliament men from some of the Corporations such persons be removed." Some of the Somersetshire towns returning members were in favour of the King, but at Bridgewater and her daughter "creek" of Minehead the spirit of the great admiral who had helped to curb, in the earlier part of the century, the tyrannous temper of the house of Stuart still lingered. With regard to Bridgewater, we have the ominous note :—"This corporation must be totally altered." And at Minehead things were just as hopeless. "Francis Lutterell (who will not comply) hath soe much interest there that it will be difficult to oppose him," is the report to the king. It is, however, added that "Robert Syderfin, a barrester," who had already been bribed with the office of deputy-lieutenant, or as we saw above, "hath a good interest, and John Speak, if he be not chosen for the County."

(1) The ancient Somerset family of Speak, or Speke, held the Manor of Alcombe for a long period. Hence their connection at this time with Minehead affairs.

Besides these returns, Mr. E. Green—to whose researches the writer is indebted for much of his information on this period—tells us that emissaries were sent out from the court to see what the prospects of the king's cause really were in the borough. Nathaniel Wade, John Jones, and Richard Andrewes were appointed to visit this district.

Of Minehead these worthy gentlemen report that it "is a Corporation, the election popular. The town belongs to Col. Luttrell, of whom we can yett give not account. Who he proposes will be chosen here, except the Sheriff can improve the interest of John Speak and Robert Siderfin (who are both right) which he hath promised to doe."

The will of Richard Blackford, of Dunster, Somerset, one of the king's Masters Extraordinary in Chancery, is dated Jan. 8th, 1688, and was proved by his widow, Elizabeth, 4th April, 1689, in the Probate Court of Canterbury, entry 48. He bequeaths "To my daughter Dyke, wife of Edward Dyke the fee simple of the messuage called Foxcombe in Hawkridge. To my daughter Sidwell, the interest and fee of the messuage called Culverwell, in the parish of Bicknoller, but William Blackford to have power to pay his sisters £100 each and take the land." Mentions besides his sister, Mary Coffin, cousin Robert Siderfin, his sister Hawkins and her son.

The will of Elizabeth Blackford, dated 23rd October, 1693, was proved in the Probate Court of Canterbury, 23rd May, 1699, by her two daughters, Elizabeth Dyke and Sidwell Dyke, the residuary legatees. She mentions her late husband's two sisters, her kinsfolk, Mr. John Quirke and his wife, Mr. Walter Coffin (then residing at Allerford) and his wife, my cousin Mr. Robert Siderfin and his wife and Joan Atkins, Mr. Edward Haberfield.

The large sums paid out in relief of travellers and others coming "by pass" for so many years appears now to have excited disapproval in the parish, and we find the following entry in the hand of the Vicar as chairman of the vestry meeting, held on April 14th, 1691:—Agreed upon by the unanimous consent of the parish that the Churchwardens for the future (for regulation of excessive disbursements upon travylling persons) doe pay unto travellers and wandering persons if they see necessity the Sums hereunder specified and no more ;—

The entry is signed by the Vicar, Samuel Bengoe and by all present at the vestry, viz: Tho. Quirke, Richard Stoaat, John Quirke, Adam Bodman, Thomas Giles, Robt. Siderfin, Edmund Spurrier, William Saffin, Willm. Blake, John Giles, Will Wade, John Hobhouse, Jos. Alloway, Charles Hill, George Hayman.

1694. Robert Siderfin was High Sheriff of the County of Somerset.

1690. Robert Siderfin signed the Churchwardens' A/cs. Timberscombe Parish.

In Sir Maxwell Lyle's Lords of Dunster, page 100, Tregonwell Luttrell, of Dunster Castle, the only son of Colonel Francis Luttrell, and Mary, dau. and heiress of John Tregonwell, of Milton Abbot, died in 1703, before attaining his majority, Robert Siderfin, of Croydon, was one of his trustees; the estates passed to his uncle, Colonel Alexander Luttrell.

1700. An Act for Vesting the Manor of Exton and other lands in the county of Somerset late the Estate of Thomas Siderfin Esqr. deceased in trustees to be sold for payment of debts 11. 12. Will c. 10. A.D. 1700.

On the east wall of the north aisle of Selworthy Church we find the following brasses:—

Robert Siderfin, gent., who died Jan. 20th, 1714, aged 25. Walter Siderfin, gent., who died March 21, 1731, aged 40.

In memory of John Clarke, of West Lynch, in the parish of Selworthy, who departed this life 26 Feb., 1796, aged 90 years.

The earliest existing baptismal register of Selworthy has been somewhat carelessly kept in days gone by. The first entry as to position is that of the baptism of one Mary Taylor, in 1712, but at the bottom of the page follow the records of the baptisms of John and William Knight, in 1668 and 1672 respectively, and on the following page come entries concerning the Coffin and Siderfin family dated as early as 1653.

The next book of the marriage registers is an equally handsome volume measuring 10 inches by 14½ inches. It is well bound, and on the cover is a red label on which is printed in gold letters : “ James White and Robert Siderfin, Churchwardens.”

WILLIAM SIDERFIN, of Minehead, Somerset, gent. Will dated March, 1716. Proved 17th Decr. 1723 (Taunton Registry). My niece Rachael clothier (?) £50. Residue to Mary my Wife. Exix. Sealed with 3 cups. Mentions the Quirckes of Minehead.

In Minehead Church the Royal Arms are fixed with William Siderfin and Hugh Payne, Churchwardens, 1704.

MARY QUIRKE, of Periton, Minehead. Widow. Will dated 3rd March 1728. Proved April 29th 1730. (Mentions) My son-in-law Walter Siderfin. My daughter Alice Siderfin.

ROBERT QUIRCK, Minehead, Somt., gent. Will dated 19th June, 1731. Proved 9th July, 1731. My uncle Mr. Robert Siderfin, Exor. To Robert my son my kinsman Mr. Walter Siderfin, all my estate in Old Cleeve.

The other expenditure is mostly for the poor living in the Church House and the maintenance of the building. The accounts, which for nearly fifty years are entered in this book, are for the most part well kept, and give us some interesting details as to local prices in this district. The book itself in 1739 cost 8s, and was purchased of one Mrs. Wood. A pair of “stockins” for Wm. Edwards cost 1s. 1d., but a pair for Joan Clements was obtained for 8d. A pair of shoes cost about 5s. for a man (Joseph Kent) and 2s. 6d. for a woman ; and Mrs. Siderfin was paid, it is recorded, 8s. for a pig for the house. The general expenses of Joseph Kent, who, alas ! did not live long to enjoy his new shoes, amounted to 17s. 8d. The hire of a horse to carry "Mary Waltham to Minehead" was but 6d.

The Siderfins, whose name is spelt in many different ways, were landowners from an early period in the hill country. Their residence, Croydon, in Timberscombe parish, has still many points of interest about it. One of the family, Robert Siderfin, who died in 1708, has a monument to his memory in Luxborough Church. The arms on the monument and in a seventeenth century deed at Dunster Castle are "three covered cups." The family were connected with the Steynings, of Holnicote.

Orchard. Paul Orchard, Esq., holds to him and his heires of the Lord of this Mannr severall parcellls of land lying in the parish of Minehead, part of the ffarme of old knowle, and the same Paul Orchard with Mr. Robert Siderfin alsoe hold to them their heires of the Lord of this Manor a messuage and Tenement att Veniford in Minehead now in the possession of the said Robert Siderfin by ffree suite to the Courts of this Mannr and the yearly rent of 11d. payable at Michas.

The dealings with the Manor in those days were complicated, for we find that in 1705 Robert Quirke, "the eldest son and heir at law of John Quirke, decd.," mortgaged his share of the manor, then said to be three-fifths, to Walter Coffin, of Selworthy, as a trustee for the latter's sister, Mary Quirke. Mary Quirke bequeathed her interest in this mortgage as to one-third to her daughter Mary Question, another third to her daughter Alice Siderfin, who was wife of Walter Siderfin, and the remaining third to the four sons of her daughter Isott Quirke, namely John, James, Robert and Thomas Quirke. ⁽¹⁾ In 1757 John Quirke, of Timberscombe, son and heir of Robert Quirke, conveyed the fee simple in trust in the three-fifths to Alice Siderfin. She devised ⁽²⁾ these shares and her interest in the mortgage debt to her nephew, John Short, in trust for his children by his wife Elizabeth. The Short family had already become interested in the estate by reason of the devolution of a share of the mortgage. It is unnecessary to deal with all the collateral interests; suffice it to say that a suit was begun in the Court of Exchequer to realize and divide the estates of Alice Siderfin, ⁽³⁾ under which in due course the Siderfin-Short interest in the estate was put up for sale at the "House of John Mountstephen, known by the sign of the Luttrell Arms," in Dunster, on the 24th March, 1788. ⁽⁴⁾ By this sale the ownership of the manor and advowson was divided after many centuries, during which the advowson had been appendant to the manor. Mr. Nicholas Snow, a direct ancestor of the present owner, became possessed of the shares of the former. The rest of the estate was at that time in the ownership of Mr. Nicholas Snow.

1759. Mr. Siderfin drew up the agreement for casting the bells of Luccombe Church.

FREEHOLDERS IN SELWORTHY.

Now, besides the rector in right of his glebe, the only freeholders left in the parish other than the owner of the three manors, are the Clarke and Stoate families. The

(a) Now in the possession of John Siderfin, Bicknoller.

Clarkes, as already stated, have for a long period lived on their property at West Lynch (while a branch of their family have also occupied East Lynch) and have for many generations taken a leading and honourable part in the affairs of the valley. The Stoates, too, have been connected with the parish for a great number of years. The last of the Selworthy branch of the family, old "Counsellor Stoate," as he was always called, lived at Allerford and must have been somewhat of a character. He was also a man of considerable substance. Another old family connected with the parish is that of Siderfin. This family is probably an offshoot of the family of Siderfin of Croydon, in the parish of Timberscombe, a family of some importance in our district in the seventeenth century.
